

MVC - Continued

- MVC is modular. The Model should not worry about display and vice versa
- Display should not care how the model is created. It gets data and all it does is show it
- The Controller does care about the Model and the display. It is the middle man.